Kiwifruit Production in Iran

Kiwi is a fruit that cannot be produced in hot climates, and it needs a moderate and cold climate to grow, and the suitable soil for it is sandy soil or a combination of animal manure and sand. Although Iran is mostly considered a dry country, but in its northern provinces near the Caspian Sea, due to proper humidity, the climate is very suitable for planting and producing kiwis, and this has made Iran one of the largest suppliers of kiwi in the world.

The two provinces of Mazandaran and Gilan are the main suppliers and exporters of kiwifruit in Iran and they produce about 400,000 tons per year, which are mainly exported to the target markets.

Kiwifruit Varieties in Iran

Most of the kiwis grown in Iran is of the green Hayward type, which has the highest quality and shelf life, also golden kiwi and red kiwi are produced, which have the possibility of supply, although they have a lower demand due to the more difficult storage conditions. but they are considered one of the tastiest types of kiwis.

Generaly, Green Hayward is the Kiwi we produce and export in big quantities.

Ajam company is the owner of kiwi orchards, cold stoeage and pack house, located in Talesh-region.

Talesh-region in Gildan, also cosidered as the best Iranian Kiwi supply region. Kiwis in this region has bigger size and golden and fuzzy skin.

Harvest Time

Kiwi harvest in Iran starts from October and ends at the end of Navabar. In order to have the best quality, it is better to delay the harvest to the end of Naobar to get the right sugar level. Of course, the late harvesting of Kiwi carries the risk of bad weather. After harvesting, kiwi can be stored for up to 6 months with good quality, and for longer storage, proper planning should be done for the market.

Kiwi Sorting in Gilda

All Gildafruit kiwis are prepared in Ajam cold storage and trading. Ajam has more than 20 years of experience in the production and export of kiwifruit in Talash-region and is currently the largest Kiwi export company in Talash and among a few large companies in Iran.

Ajam is equipped with all kiwi sorting and packaging facilities and also has several cold storages for kiwi, which prepares up to 20,000 tons of kiwi annually for the target markets.

During its years of activity, Ajam has prepared his private kiwi orchards and grows and harvests kiwi with high standards.

Kiwi Packing in Gilda

Based on the target market, we at Gilda prepare kiwi in suitable packaging. Sometimes the market does not need to sort and calibrate the kiwi, so it is sorted manually, and sometimes it is necessary to calibrate the kiwis with very high accuracy, in which case we sort the kiwis in the customer's desired size using the advanced machines we have.

Gilda has the ability to prepare the required packaging according to the customer's order and use it when sorting the product. With the growth of fruit export and especially kiwi, the packaging industry has also grown and we are in the best logistics conditions of these centers and we can change the form of packaging in the fastest time.

The reason for the higher variety of plastic baskets is its cost-effective production conditions in Iran. For this reason, most fruit packaging is done in the form of plastic or petrochemical baskets of 2 to 20 kg. The best choice is the 10 kg petrochemical basket, which has both reasonable price and flexibility and higher impact resistance.
